

Michael Jeffreys is a highly-acclaimed sales and motivational speaker. Since 1988, he has delivered over 4,000 hours of live seminar training, in fact, more than 1,200 organizations in the US and abroad have hosted Michael's programs.

His impressive list of clients includes Delta Airlines, Jackson National Life, Re/Max, and the National Association of Insurance and Financial Advisors.

Furthermore, Michael Jeffreys is the CEO of Seminars On Demand, an eLearning company that produces video-based training programs featuring internationally renowned thought leaders, bestselling authors, and award-winning speakers.

On a personal note, Michael grew up in New York City, and later migrated to the midwest where he graduated from the University of Michigan with a degree in economics.

He now resides on a private island in Waterford, Michigan with his wife and four children, where he enjoys boating, fishing, and making the best homemade pizza you've ever tasted in your life.

Here today to share his best ideas for taking your sales and life to a whole new level, please join me in welcoming Michael Jeffreys...